Who can get support, advice and companion?

If a family is having problems within or outside of the family, a social service is available to give advice and help.

When a family is trying to better their current situation, they can go to a social worker which will create a partnership and also to get the help that they want.

Since 1984 the family based service is under administration of the Diakonie- and Sozialstation Ludwigsburg gGmbH. It offers assistance as an educational step on the scene of the region.

There are more than 30 social workers in our region by order of the youth welfare department who help families to deal with their all day life.

Older children and teenagers have the option of a personal counsellor who supports, gives advice and accompany.
